EDITORIAL

Thirty-six little girls have made history at Saints. Twelve in each class in the First Form, they are the vanguard of the co-educational wave which will soon surge throughout the school, changing a century-old tradition of 'Boys only'. It will take us some time to remember to say 'students' where for so long we have said 'boys', but we offer a most sincere welcome to these young girls and to those older ones who have joined our Upper School. May their school career be happy and successful, and may their presence deepen in all our students that courtesy and gentleness which are the hallmarks of a refined education.

Our new girls have come to a school which is familiar with the new. The Workshop was officially opened in December 1974, the Farm in September of this year, two projects radically changing the shape of education at Saints and a lasting sign of the vigour of the College Association, National Service is now established in the school, and it is symbolic that a Jesuit scholastic was one of the first Teacher/Officers. The sports programme has been expanded to cover a wider range of activities than at any time in the school's history, and the appointment of a full-time Sports Master was a necessary corollary,

The cost has been not only in cash but also in time. What the students and staff feel about the addition of an extra period to each day is easy to tell, but the introduction of the new Guyana Time softened the blow. Of course, we have to face the hard facts squarely; extended facilities, new projects, free text-books will all be useless unless there is a spirit of dedicated work in all those who make up the College. For over a hundred years St Stanislaus' has produced students of high calibre and we are confident that today's students, boys and girls, will live up to those standards, so that in the years to come, we will be able to record their achievements as we have been proud until now to record in the Magazine those of our Old Boys.

1976 is Education Year. Education is not a task for just one year, it is for life. But it is also for each day, with the frustrations and disappointments which we all encounter in the daily round of school life. If we combine a noble vision of the future with a determined effort to cope with the day's problems, we will develop our students, our school and our country to that true greatness which God has planned for us.

OPENING OF COLLEGE FARM

Cde. Gavin Kennard, Minister of Agriculture, declares the College Farm officially open.

25th September 1975. It is four o'clock on Thursday afternoon and we are waiting for the official opening of the College Farm. Around us in the huge marquee erected between the chicken pens are the green uniforms of the College National Service boys, the grey and blue uniforms of the new College girls, the familiar grey of the boys. Parents, friends, V.I.Ps take their seats. At four-thirty, the Honourable Minister of Agriculture, Cde, G. B. Kennard, C.C.H., M.P., arrives and tours the farm, the animal pens, the growing cane. The ceremony begins, broadcast over Radio Demerara.

From Dr. Peter Fernandes, we hear the moving story of the Farm, a story of ideals, vigour, frustration, new hope, of friends in need, of self-sacrifice. Fr. K. Khan, the Headmaster from whose idea the Farm takes its origin, gives us new optimism with his tale of involvement, of the parents and friends of the College who gave up their Sunday mornings to build the chicken-pen. But from the Minister, we hear good news, proud news: that St. Stanislaus College Farm is the best school farm in Guyana, that it will serve as a model for the many which will follow its example, that the Ministry of Agriculture pledges its support and its technicians for the development of the Farm in the months ahead.

Fr. J. McCluskey invites us to bless the Lord in thanksgiving for His goodness; boys from the Third Form carry in the tools and fruits of the Farm, including a live lamb who seems most content to be centre of attraction. And among a rich array of wise agricultural thoughts read to us, we hear a Chinese proverb: "If you want to be happy for a night, then get drunk; for a week, marry a wife; but for a lifetime, then be a farmer."

The Hymn to St. Stanislaus rings out from the marquee. Yes, that is the new St. Stanislaus College on the Farm. God is good. "Bless Yahweh, my soul. Yahweh my God, how great you are. You make fresh grass grow for cattle and those plants made use of by man, for them to get food from the soil." The Farm is officially open.

First Formers bring in the first crop of rice from the College Farm.

FARM and WORKSHOP PROJECT: FUTURE TRENDS

COLLEGE FARM

An idea has no national frontiers, for it cannot be fettered or destroyed, and woe betides the man who tries to suppress the power of the human mind. He will eventually destroy himself.

The idea of a School Farm where students can be taught certain basic skills and be given an orientation in life that will enrich their entire personality, came to me one day in 1973 when I had to come to Sophia to evict squatters. Yes, many might find this amusing, but the entire Farm area of some 16 acres had been pegged out by squatters who put to me one simple statement: if this is your land, and you do not intend to use it, then it belongs to US, and we intend to take it. Along a coastline that is densely populated, such a statement carried a ring of sincerity, and I must admit that I felt some measure of sympathy for their motive, although I could not agree with their actions. At the time, the land consisted of a large expanse of water-logged, marshy, muddy terrain overgrown with grasses and weeds, the prey to marauding cattle and other animals, and the victims of unscrupulous landowners who stole our earth to fill up their backyards. If the College did not seriously intend to use this land which had been acquired some twelve years ago as the proposed site of the new College after the sale of the Brickdam precincts - a sale that never materialised, then it should hand it over to the Nation. Unproductive land is a crime that cries to heaven for vengeance!

The sight of these squatters on the 16 acres College Farm, gave me much food for thought. And it was about this time that the College Association for a long time a great asset to the College in fund-raising with its activities culminating in the Annual Dinner, elected a new President. This was none other than Mr. Rafiq Khan. Rafiq came at just the right time, an answer to our prayers, a man with magic in his fingers as he conjured up committees that worked night and day to bring into existence a host of new structures. Our litany of thanks is a very long one, and we cannot tire you with a long list of names, but it was surely Rafiq Khan whose name will head the list.

COLLEGE WORKSHOP COMMITTEE

The Workshop Committee, headed by Mr. Noel Gonsalves, designed, constructed and equipped the workshop in record time, and we owe a vote of thanks to Mr. Maurice Dumont who designed it, Mr. Leo Yansen who supervised its construction, and the many benefactors who assisted us with materials, cash and moral support. Dr. Ptolemy Reid, our Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of National Development, declared the Workshop officially opened on December 4, 1974 and this marked the first phase of this Project. The task of teaching Industrial Arts, and of orienting all our students towards a technical perspective, a unity of theory and practice that would pervade every subject and affect their entire personality, such a task has now begun. It will require a dedicated staff, a sympathetic and helpful community and the active support of our parents, if it is to succeed. But it is not an impossible one.

Mr. Sherlock Hudson instructs boys from 1C.

THE FARM COMMITTEE

The Farm Committee, headed by Dr. Peter Fernandes, had a much more difficult task. Out of a 16 acre swamp, it had to erect a modern model school farm. No one, looking at the mud and weeds and murky expanse of water, could have envisaged the sight that now fills our eyes. The Committee met for many months, sometimes weekly, and hammered into shape an impressive dossier that became our blueprint for future development. While the fund-raising Committee, headed by Mr. John Fernandes Jnr., set about raising the fantastic sums required, the Farm Committee went ahead with its discussions and eventually secured a meeting with Dr. Ptolemy Reid, at the time Hon, Minister of Agriculture and National Development. The support of Dr. Reid has meant a great deal to the College, not only his physical presence at our Workshop opening and his visits to the College, but the tremendous moral support he has given us. In fact, we must record, with deep appreciation, the assistance at many levels, of the various Government Ministries, and especially the Ministries of Agriculture and Education.

In a dual project that has national significance and is meant to support our FCH programme, we must surely work together in harmony and assist one another, No man is an island, and no school can go ahead by itself; as part of a national system of secondary education, we see our very continuation as a grant-aided College within the context of our young developing nation. But it is our sincere hope that the energies that have been channelled into these projects, will continue to be available as we move ahead and try to be faithful to the ideal and vision that Dr. Ptolemy Reid so admirably referred to as "Education for SERVICE". It is this intention of serving the nation, and being alive and responsive to its needs that has prompted the double thrusts into agricultural and technical education.

Headmaster, Staff and Association Members lend a hand on the Farm.

The work of the Farm Committee is one that seems to have no end. The empoldering, fencing, digging of drains, construction of a caretaker's house, laboratory, chicken pens, and animal pens, as well as the planting of rice, sugar cane and a wide variety of fruits and vegetables, not to mention fish culture, these have been going on and will continue for some time to come. One of the most encouraging aspects of the Farm Project, and one that augurs well for the future, has been the self-help that has been forthcoming. Every Sunday since the first Sunday of May, has brought together at the farm, dozens of parents and students, old boys, friends and supporters who have worked in the blazing sun or drenching rain so as to construct chicken pen No. 2. and the animal pen. This represents not only a saving of cash, but the involvement of the Guyanese community in a project with which they are proud to be associated. Involvement breeds further involvement, and we hope and pray that this self-help will continue for many years to come, and so transform the entire face of our Nation. For we sincerely believe that our Co-operative Republic, based on the principle of working and sharing and building together - one people, one nation, one destiny - will eventually confound its critics who seem to preach nothing but failure and discontent.

FUTURE TRENDS

At this point, we need to pause and ponder. Is St. Stanislaus College becoming an Agricultural College or a Technical College? Where is it heading? So many new dimensions have been opened out in the past three years and so many opportunities offered to our students, that there is a real danger of our becoming bogged down with the rapidity of change and left hopelessly confined.

We have introduced agricultural and technical education, changed the school hours and erected a canteen, introduced a flourishing National Service Cadet Corps, extended the school day by an extra period every day, and are now bringing in co-education at the level of Forms I,

V and VI. We have had a co-educational Form VI for some time now, but the admittance of girls into Forms I and V is a further development. I can hear the groans of some of our old boys, as they look at what has become of their Alma Mater, for so long a male bastion! Further changes are bound to follow, as we try to assimilate what has taken place and to anticipate the needs of our society. Amid all this flurry of activity, we again ask the question: what is the goal of such an institution as Saints? What are our ideals, and how do these thrusts and developments fit into our objectives?

In our Prospectus, we state quite emphatically that we are a Christian institution that aims at imparting both intellectual and technical skills and at forming citizens of Guyana who are imbued with a reverence for God, a love for their religion and a spirit of service to their country; we offer an education that stresses academic excellence and respect for manual labour, and is based on a philosophy of co-operation, a spirit of sharing and working together for the good of all. These ideals have not changed, rather they are fast becoming a reality as we feel impelled by an inner dynamism to move ahead in pursuit of these objectives.

The College Motto is "Aeterna, non caduca", i.e, eternal, not perishable, and this is again a reminder to us that while our feet are firmly planted on mother earth, we are ourselves committed to the building up of a society where peace and justice can prevail, and where there can flourish spiritual values, respect for the religious traditions of all, inculcation of the ideal of SERVICE and love of God and our neighbours.

PRIZE DAY 1975

1975 is International Women's Year, and so it was appropriate that the keynote address at Prize Day on February 20 this year should have been given by Sister Hazel Campaigne, the Headmistress of St. Rose's High School. Mr. Joe Castanheiro, then Vice-President of the College Association, chaired the gathering which was again held on the College lawns, with the audience of parents, boys and special guests seated in the Forum. Despite the many inadequacies of the improvised stage, Fr. Earle managed to present colourful and attractive scenes from Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice". Portia's confrontation with Shylock took on new significance in the context of a Co-operative Republic pledged to eliminate exploitation. Among the items from the recent Elocution Competition which were rendered, young Peter McDavid's recital of Louise M. Bennet's "Jamaica Elevate" was especially applauded.

In his Report, the Headmaster, Fr. Khan, said that in the Third World, of which Guyana was a part, the main aim of education was seen as a power to awaken men's consciousness so that they could resist manipulation in whatever form it presented itself, and take control over their destinies. "So often they are trapped in social, economic, religious and political structures, and education is the revolutionary tool by which they can achieve an effective breakthrough to freedom." But this freedom must not be kept for self-glorification; our students must become Men-for-Others. Fr. Khan also spoke of the introduction of a Cadet Corps into the life of the school as a way of making it community-oriented, and he said that the eight areas which comprise the national Service syllabus should not be seen as optional extras but as part of the education every child should have.

In her feature address before presenting the prizes, Sister Hazel spoke of a matter of crucial importance: the need to link education to life. This means more than encouraging pupils to become involved in community projects, important though these may be. It also means more than giving pupils a technically or agriculturally based training so that they can effectively contribute to the national goals of feeding, clothing and housing the nation. It means no less than teaching our children how to live as fully developed human beings, as responsible members of society in a whole range of personal and social relationships. "H'ow much time is devoted to educating students to use their leisure hours correctly, to understand and therefore control their own bodies, to develop good judgment, taste, intellectual courage and moral standards?"

The area which Sister Hazel singled out as especially needing our attention was that of family living. "What serious and careful preparation is given to our young men and women today, especially our young men, to help them in those intricate, delicate yet vital areas of interpersonal relationships, to help them prepare for marriage and family living in today's world? ... Guyana needs houses, yes, but it badly needs HOMES – homes where family living is stable and healthy, where the qualities of love, of understanding, of mutual respect, of faithfulness and selflessness, are experienced and taught and lived Homes where children are guided along the path of upright, decent living "

Sister Hazel's address left us with much to think about. However, some of the boys no doubt appreciated more the part she played in persuading the Headmaster to yield to the unexpected request for two days' holiday. After all, the occasion was very special; it was the last Prize Day of St, Stanislaus as an all-boys' school.

PROSPECTUS

St. Stanislaus' College is a Christian institution that has been conducted for over one hundred years by a Staff that includes members of the Society of Jesus. It aims at imparting both intellectual and technical skills and at forming citizens of Guyana who are imbued with a reverence of God, a love of their religion and a spirit of service to their country. It offers an education that stresses academic excellence and respect for manual labour, and is at the same time based on a philosophy of co-operation, a spirit of sharing and working together for the good of all,

The normal five years' course of studies leads to the G.C.E. (London) at Ordinary Level, or to its Caribbean equivalent, when this becomes operational, There is a further two years' course for the G.C.E. (Advanced Level London).

The College has six good Science Laboratories, and there is a full course in Physics, Chemistry and Biology for every student. There is a College Library, and the College is equipped with audio-visual aids. An Art room, a Modern Languages room and a Geography room has been set up. A joint Form 6 has been established with St. Joseph's High School and boys and girls can join either school so as to be taught the following subjects up to the Advanced Level: Physics, Chemistry, Biology, Mathematics, Economics, English Literature, French, Spanish, History, Geography, Art. Volleyball, table tennis, netball, hand-ball, hockey, badminton, basketball, swimming, scouting and the National Service Cadet corps are also offered.

The school year consists of three terms. Classes begin at 7:45 a.m, and end at 2:10 p.m. with a Canteen lunch provided from 11:30 to 12:10 p.m. Form I has a 7 period day, ending at 1.30 p.m. except on one of their Workshop afternoons when they end at 2:10 p.m. The rest of the school operates on the basis of an 8 period day, and a 40 period week.

FEES, not including books, $46.00 per term. Extras for games, $3.00 per term. Certain basic text books are now provided free of charge by the Ministry of Education, and exercise books are replaced free of charge when they have been fully utilised.
